Assured Communication

Sky Connect provides the lowest cost, most reliable and easiest to install solution for MagnaStar® radiophone users threatened by the discontinuation of Verizon's Airfone service.

Using Sky Connect's interface with the global Iridium network of communication satellites, MagnaStar users can keep their existing handsets and convert their in-flight radiophone and Internet service quickly and at a lower cost than competing equipment and service providers.

Sky Connect's Iridium interface assures that radiophone service will be available at any location in the world.

The Low-Cost Option

Sky Connect equipment and service will save aircraft operators money and time. Users have the option of single- or dual-line service.

Sky Connect's state-of-the-art Iridium system, including an installation kit, is just $14,995 for a single line. A double system supporting dual lines is just $24,995.

Sky Connect's upgrade is significantly lighter and less complicated than expensive and complex systems using other satellite networks such as Inmarsat, etc.

Easy to Install

The installation kit that comes with the system makes installing the equipment straight forward for technicians. The whole process can be achieved the next time your aircraft goes in for service or cabin modification.

Existing MagnaStar features such as the PBX and intercom remain available after the upgrade is installed.

Reliable Equipment

Sky Connect's conversion package includes a certified Iridium transceiver and a high performance TSO'd Iridium antenna. Each has been manufactured to Sky Connect's exacting specifications.

The reliability of Sky Connect transceivers has been proven in more than 1,500 installations worldwide. Mean-time-between-failure is more than 6,000 hours of service.

Sky Connect's equipment and service will save operators money and time.

Talk For Free

Take advantage of Sky Connect's new customer offer by June 1, 2007 and receive 1,000 minutes of free air time (for outgoing calls) to be used during the first year of service.

The system includes a USB port for Internet data connections using a laptop computer. Iridium data software is provided on a USB drive included with each system.

Sky Connect Mission

Our mission is clear ... we pioneer affordable satellite-based voice, tracking and data systems for aircraft, ships and other vehicles needing assured and reliable communications.

Our team includes industry aviation experts, engineers, pilots and technicians who understand your need for communication solutions that work every time you need them and that cost no more than they should.
